ACADEMIC PROJECT:

Vehicle Over Speed Indication to Traffic Control Room Using GSM.

This project concentrates on designing a device to detect rash driving on highways and to alert the traffic authorities in case of any violation .The use of GSM technologies allows the system to track the objects and provide the up-to -date information. This information is authorized to specific uses over the GSM as the server gets the information from the remote users. This helps in developing a model for location tracking using GSM technology. As these GSM technologies having greater range of frequencies, the user can get the information as quicker as possible. Thus the applications are used in real time surveillance.
